The 2020 volume of the biannual International Studies: Interdisciplinary Political and Cultural Journal will focus on the multiple crises that the world changes and their management from the perspective of the Pacific studies.

The editorial board invites articles that present both multidisciplinary and interdisciplinary research from within international relations, public affairs, communication, anthropology, social and political geography, cultural studies and mass media studies.

The deadline for submitting articles (not more than 6500 words), interviews and reviews is 1 December 2020.
